

BUCKET FILL-OSOPHY 101™

Weekly words of wisdom to keep your bucket filled

Week of October 14, 2007 • Volume 1, Issue 11

Making a Difference ...in hardcover!

The new hardcover version of “Have You Filled a Bucket Today? A Guide to Daily Happiness for Kids” is available for pre-ordering right now on amazon.com®

We are so excited!

Parents and teachers have said that they loved the book, but wished it was more durable.

The new book has a separate “dust jacket” for added protection, so that now when little ones want to hear “the bucket book” over and over, it should hold up to those little fingers pointing to Dave Messing’s colorful illustrations of boys and girls filling buckets.

As we “go to press” with this issue of our newsletter, the folks at Amazon.com are offering a special 30% discount for a limited time only.

Buy new: $17.95 - $12.21

Available for Pre-order
Eligible for FREE Super Saver Shipping

Forgive us for using this space for an announcement that amounts to a “commercial” however, we thought you’d want to know about the savings on new hardcover book.

Perhaps this picture will show you how we feel:

Bucket Nuggets from Carol McCloud, The Bucket Lady

Weeee filllll buckets!

The Bucket Fillers Team closes each of our assemblies for preschool through second grade children with a special song that Kathy Martin, a team member, and I composed.

Sung to the tune of “London Bridges Falling Down” the children quickly learn these simple verses and delight in singing the song.

We’d like to share our bucket filling song with you and invite you to introduce it to your young children. We would also love to hear about your experiences with it. We usually sing the first verse, but older children would probably be eager to learn more of the verses.

You may also want to include a weekly Bucket Fillers 101 class for your children. We suggest you open with “Bucketfillers 101” followed with a chat about all the ways they (and you!) had fun filling buckets during the preceding week.
