

Sharing the Joy

The joy of the 2019 holiday season is here! It's such a magical time of year, but it can be hard for some that aren't feeling the joy of the season. Over the next two weeks, through the holiday season, we challenge you to spread some joy and fill some buckets wherever you go. Here are some fun ideas of things you can do:

Volunteer for a local charity.

The Salvation Army is looking for people to ring bells this season, with many time slots available. What a great idea to get the whole family involved in raising money for others. You could even get some hot chocolate and deliver cups to others ringing the bells at your local store!

Leave a treat for your delivery driver.

If you haven't seen the viral video about the Amazon delivery driver getting treats left by a woman in Delaware, you must watch the joy the driver showed as he literally danced away from their home. It's fun and super easy to leave a small treat for the busy delivery drivers!

Help neighbors with Christmas decorations.

It can be hard for neighbors to put up Christmas decorations. The elderly, sick, or those with babies can have trouble putting up and decorating simple things like a Christmas tree or some lights. Better yet, help your neighbor take down and organize all their decorations once the holidays are over!

Brainstorm some ideas, as a family or group, of things you can do to fill some buckets over the next couple weeks. Tag us on any one of our social media channels (@BucketFillers1) so we can see all the awesome, bucketfilling things you're doing this season!
